PRICE THREE CENTS

CHERRY CROP IS BEING GATHERED
AND PUT IN CANSOrtanna Company
Employs 200 to Harvest Fruit on
360 Acres.HAIL CAUSED
SOME DAMAGE

Picking of the annual crop of sour cherries, that each year amounts to hundreds of tons of fruit, was begun Monday morning in the Ortanna section of the county.

Ortanna canning company officials reported that they employed over 200 pickers Monday morning to start the task of picking cherries from about 360 acres of cherry trees. The harvest will be completed in about a week, it is expected.

The Ortanna company pays the pickers at the rate of 10 cents per 10-quart pail of cherries with a bonus of three cents for each pail if the pickers remain in the employ of the company until the work is completed.

Hail Damaged Some Trees

The Ortanna company owns more than 400 acres of cherry trees, but one section of that area, an orchard containing about 60 acres, was stripped of its fruit by the hail storm of June 13. In the other parts of the orchards the fruit is reported to be of excellent quality.

The set of fruit on the trees is generally light, this year, it is reported, and in most of the cherry orchards only about a fifth of a normal crop is anticipated. Cherries from the company orchards are being canned at the Ortanna plant.

In another orchard in the Ortanna section, Shelly brothers were reported to be employing about 30 persons. The Shelly orchards contain about 150 acres. Owners of many of the smaller cherry orchards are disposing of their fruit by trucking to nearby points.

At the Blue Ribbon orchards, between McKnightstown and Arendtsville, it was stated that picking of sour cherries will not begin until the end of the week and probably will not be in full swing until next Monday. Several hundred persons will find employment in the Biglerville-Arendtsville-York Springs section when picking begins on a large scale in that area.

Cherry canning was in progress at the Biglerville plant of the C. H. Musselman company today. The sour cherries that are being used have been bought in part from growers of the York Springs and Bendersville sections of Adams county. The canning will continue throughout today and possibly on Wednesday, it was stated by Musselman company officials.

By the end of the week, it is expected that sour cherries in the Blue Ribbon orchards, owned by the Musselman company, will be ripe and ready for canning. When large quantities of the fruit are in condition, the Biglerville plant will go on "full schedule" and will can the fruit day and night.

The fruit will be bought under a system of federal inspection and a graduated price schedule will be used in paying for the various grades of fruit.

PAYS FOR SALE
OF SCHOOL BONDS

Freeman Company Sends Check to Gettysburg District Today.

The Gettysburg school district today received a check from the M. M. Freeman company of Philadelphia covering the sale of the issue of 20 $1,000 serial bonds on May 12. The bonds were dated May 15 and were subsequently executed by school board officials and delivered to the Philadelphia concern, which had been the high bidder at a premium of $101.68.

The check received today was in the amount of $19,388.47. That sum represents the amount received for the bonds, $20,336 plus accrued interest for one month and fourteen days amounting to $69.27. From the total of those two amounts was deducted the check for $1016.80, which accompanied the bid for the bonds.

The Gettysburg school board has now completed its part in supplying 55 per cent of the total cost of $95,000. The board's share of $52,250 has been furnished by the Gettysburg school district which is now in a position to apply to the federal government for 25 per cent of the entire cost. An advance payment by the WPA of about $1,900 has already been received. As work on the new high school additions progresses the local school officials will make application for the remainder of the 45 per cent of the total cost that will be supplied by the federal government.

First interest on the bonds is due November 15, 1936.

127 TOILETS ARE NOT CONNECTED TO TOWN SEWER

Health Officer Completes Survey Ordered by Borough Council.

ARE SENT OUT

In compliance with instructions given him at a special meeting of the Gettysburg board of health a week ago, Erie R. Deardorff, borough health officer, has completed a survey of the town to determine the number of outdoor toilets being maintained here in violation of the borough ordinance that became effective, May 1, 1936.

Mr. Deardorff reported today that he found 127 of the illegal toilets. A survey made a year ago revealed 178 toilets that had no sewer connections at that time. Mr. Deardorff states that he found a number of property owners are arranging to comply with the borough ordinance.

Notices Issued

The health officer has issued notices to the owners of many of the 97 properties that have sewer connections available and have failed to comply with the outdoor toilet ordinance. They have ten days in which to make the connections before prosecutions will be brought by the health officer at the direction of the board of health and the town council.

Of the 97 properties that are not connected with the sewer, a number of the owners have already taken steps to comply and no notices were issued in those cases. Mr. Deardorff stated today that the number who received the formal ten-day notice must convince him that they have made preparation for complying with the ordinance requiring sewer connections or he will prosecute. The penalty for violation is $10 fine or ten days in jail. Each day the outdoor toilet remains in use is regarded as a separate violation.

In addition to requiring connection with the borough sewer system, the ordinance directs that the well beneath the toilet be filled with clean soil. There is no requirement that the toilet building be removed.

Sewer Connections Not Available

The borough health officer has prepared a list of the locations, and the names of the owners of properties where connections to the borough sewer system are not available. That list has been sent to President Clarence W. Epley of the town council and will be turned over to the sewer committee of borough council.

The ordinance providing for the removal of the outdoor toilets holds that the removal of the toilets cannot be compelled where the property owner does not have immediately available a sewer line with which connections may be made.

It is expected that at the regular July meeting of the borough council next Monday evening, the council will direct the sewer committee to arrange to make sewer connections available to the 30 properties on Mr. Deardorff's list.

To Prosecute All
'Impostors' Taking
Learner's Tests

Effective immediately, more stringent penalties are to be meted out to persons who appear before state highway patrol examination units, pose as the holders of learner's permits, and take the examinations in place of the persons who have made application for driver's licenses.

Previously the crime of impersonating the holder of a learner's permit for the purpose of securing a permanent license for that person was punishable by the revocation of the permit and the license of the operator who appeared in behalf of the learner. Now in addition to those penalties, the state plans to revoke the registration of the car used for the examination.

$65,000 BID FOR SHOE COMPANY

Littlestown Firm's Assets To Be Recommended Sold by Bankruptcy Referee.

The sale of the assets of the Littlestown shoe company to Charles Barend, of New York city, for $65,000 will be recommended to the court by J. Donald Swope, Esq., referee in the bankruptcy proceedings.

That announcement was made by Mr. Swope, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon following two meetings of the creditors and shareholders of the Littlestown shoe concern.

The meeting had been called for 10 o'clock this morning and when the interested persons gathered in Swope's office the opening bid of Charles Barend, of $60,000 was topped by Phillip Smith, Joseph Franklin and associates. Bidding continued until noon when a recess was taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon. At that time Barend had entered his bid of $65,000 and Smith and Franklin had stopped at $64,000. When the session re-opened this afternoon the Barend bid stood and will be recommended to the court by Mr. Swope.

Barend will secure possession, if the referee's recommendation is followed by the court, of all the assets of the Littlestown shoe company, including $43,000 in cash, equipment and accounts receivable. The sale does not concern the machinery in the plant that is leased from the United Shoe Machinery company.

Bankruptcy proceedings for the Littlestown concern followed its inability to comply with a plan of reorganization approved by more than two-thirds of the creditors. O. P. Waters, Sunbury, the permanent trustee in bankruptcy for the case, was present when the bids were received today.

STOCK REPORT

New York City, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—Directive specialties rolled on to the buying track in today's stocks.

Business news motivated those issues that attained popularity. Preferred equities came into the limelight on hopes of resumption of dividends or adjustments of back payments.

Near the final hour, a number of soft spots were in evidence. The steels, still a little fearful of a labor controversy, lacked stamina. Chrysler was again active, but profit taking kept its advance to within a point.

BAR REPORTS ON
CHANGES NEEDED
AT COURT HOUSE

Lawyers Submit Recommendations to Commissioners Today.

PARTIAL COST
PUT AT $2,493

Recommendations for extensive changes in office arrangement in the Adams county court house were made to the county commissioners at their regular weekly session this morning at the court house. The recommendations were laid before the county board by Judge W. C. Sheely and Eugene V. Bulleit, Esq., chairman of a bar association committee named to study means of relieving congestion in the offices of the court.

A copy of recommendations made to Judge Sheely by the bar committee was submitted to the commissioners. The proposals had been agreed upon at a meeting of the committee of attorneys in conference with court house officials several weeks ago.

In addition to recommending the re-arrangement of several of the offices and vaults, the report also points to the need for new and additional infiles for use in several of the offices.

Vault Space Needed

The need for considerable additional vault space in the office of the register and recorder is pointed to and it is recommended that the wall between the present vaults of the register and recorder's and the clerk of the court's offices be removed and one large vault made available for the use of the register and recorder.

The office of the clerk of the courts, under the recommendations, would be moved from its present position at the south front of the building to the space now occupied by the Red Cross office. Vault space for the clerk of the court in the new position would be provided by the construction of a 14-foot vault at the present location of the office of the probation officer.

Would Re-arrange Offices

The present office of the clerk of the courts, separated from the present vault, would be used by the Red Cross and the probation officer would be assigned to the present arbitration room.

The new remodeled consultation room at the second floor rear could be used for an arbitration room and other like purposes.

The report submitted to the commissioners makes no estimate of the cost of re-arranging the vaults and offices but itemizes the cost of new infiles, and cases and desks at $2,493.

Suggest Index Purchase

The report submitted to the commissioners follows in part:

"Office space in the office of the prothonotary is adequate for many years to come and the vault is adequate. No changes are recommended. The condition of the judgment index is becoming serious and a new index system is needed. We recommend as follows: The immediate purchase of a new loose-leaf expandable judgment index and the employment of one person to transfer the living judgments to the new index. The prothonotary and his assistant have promised to donate their services in assisting in every way possible, including the comparing of records."

"Immediate relief is needed in the office of the register and recorder. The office space is adequate but the vault space should be doubled to accommodate records now piled in inaccessible places and records (Continued on Page Seven)

ITALY PLEDGES A SMALL ARMY FOR ETHIOPIA

Duce Tells League He Will Not Form Huge Native Force.

Geneva, June 30 (AP).—Italy, seeking to calm fears of Great Britain and France, promised the league of nations Monday night she would not create a huge Ethiopian army.

This pledge was contained in a note delivered on the eve of a session of the league assembly before which Emperor Haile Selassie will make a personal plea for "justice." The Italian note blamed Ethiopians for the war and sketched plans for the development of the country, promising to keep the league in touch. It announced Italy's intention to "collaborate in every way" with the Geneva body.

Negus Prepares Appeal
Haile Selassie wrote officials: "It is our intention personally to take part in one or several meetings of the assembly at the head of the Ethiopian delegation."

The Negus, stripped of his empire by Italy, remained in seclusion in his hotel Monday working on his appeal, to be delivered in French. Creation of an "international college of elder statesmen" to help the league keep world peace was suggested Monday night by the Greek jurist, Nicolas Politis.

Hope U. S., Others Might Join
Behind Politis' proposal was the idea the United States, Germany and Japan might join the league if members were freed of general sanctions responsibility.

Politis proposed to limit the participation of nations in economic and financial sanctions to those directly interested in any conflict and to restrict military sanctions to a regional group of states of which the victim of aggression would be a member.

He also proposed a new interpretation of Article 10, whereby nations would respect, but not undertake to guarantee, the territorial independence of other nations.

CALEDONIA POOL ABOUT FINISHED

State-Owned Project, Nearly Completed, Filled With Water; Swimming Banned.

The state-owned swimming pool at Caledonia, recently built with relief labor, was filled with water for the first time Saturday morning, although swimming in the new pool will not be authorized for some time.

R. E. Chamberlin, forester of the Michaux forest district, stated that he hoped to complete arrangements to permit swimming "some time this summer."

Although work on the pool is nearly completed, much work remains to be done on auxiliary projects, Chamberlin stated, which necessarily hinders the official opening of the pool. The bathhouse, a large wooden structure, which is to be equipped with shower baths and lavatories, is about half completed. The laying of 10,000 feet of farm field tile with open joints, in a field adjacent to the bathhouse, to accommodate the waste matter is now under way.

With this work remaining to be done before the pool is formally opened, Chamberlin said that water has been run into the pool to prevent expansion of the concrete during the hot summer days. Because the water now in the pool is not chemically treated and there is no regular addition of fresh water, "No Swimming" signs have been posted. Despite the signs a number of persons used the pool Sunday.

The pool, which was started in December, 1934, is 190 feet long and 80 feet wide, graduating in depth from 10 feet to 12 inches. The pool will hold 400,000 gallons of water.

In constructing the pool, bathhouse and auxiliary projects, the materials were furnished by the state department of forests and waters and are expected to cost approximately $5,000. Labor for the projects was furnished by the CWA, its successor, the WPA, and other relief agencies. At its inception nearly $15,000 was allotted for labor expenditures alone.

When the pool is opened to the public, Chamberlin said, it will be kept under the supervision of the department of forests and waters for several years and subsequently leased as a concession.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Hylton has found at least two persons, Captain Reeves and Dale Shipley, who had trouble with old Arthur Burdett. Since that ancient skiff just has been murdered, the Inspector is interested. And now Burdett's solicitor returns from France, hears of the murder, and arrives at the police cottage in Hope Enderton with a copy of Arthur Burdett's latest will—plus a good deal of excitement.

Chapter 16 NEW SCENT

"I want it to be clearly understood," he said almost severely, "that I am doing this on your orders and authority as a police officer and that no initiative rests with me in the matter whatsoever. Do you agree?"

"Dear Mr. Hanley," Hylton laughed, "a policeman's life is practically one long round of irregularities. I'll take full responsibility for looking at the will—so go ahead."

"Very well." The mere familiar feel of a legal document seemed to give little Hanley more confidence and clearing his throat he read aloud:

"This is the last will and testament of me, Arthur Clayton Caldershot Burdett of Enderton Court, Hope Enderton in the County of Sussex made this twelfth day of January in the year of Our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-six. I hereby specifically revoke the will and testament made by me on the twenty-second day of February, 1922. I appoint my solicitor Quinton Eustache Hanley of the firm of Hanley & Payne, Morechester, to be my executor and I direct that all my debts and funeral expenses shall be paid as soon as reasonably possible after my decease."

"I insisted on that clause being included," Mr. Hanley said almost fiercely.

"So far it's all cackle," Hylton said, "when do we come to the 'osses'?"

"The gist or vital essence of the matter," Quinton Hanley said repressively, "now follows. The wording, you will please understand, is exactly as Mr. Burdett wished it himself."

"In my previous Will I left all my property and possessions whatsoever to my half nephew, Dale Shipley, but owing to that young man's insufferable rudeness, his bad temper and even threats towards me this day, I have decided that he shall not benefit by my death to the extent of one penny. All my property and possessions whatsoever therefore I hereby give and bequeath to Andrew Lumsdale, my manservant, at present in my employ, who at least is reasonably honest and keeps a civil tongue in his head."

"And that," said Quinton Hanley, as he folded the document carefully and put it back in its long envelope, "is all."

The Inspector whistled; he was beginning to be excited. "Well, it's a pretty good beginning," he said. "Who witnessed this will, Mr. Hanley?"

"Two of the clerks in my office. It was witnessed, and duly executed there and then."

"Did young Shipley know about it?"

"That I can't say. But I am afraid it would be very unlike Arthur Burdett to do anyone a bad turn and not tell them about it."

Hylton nodded; he could imagine that to be true well enough.

"And Lumsdale, did he know?"

"There again I can't say."

"How much was the old boy worth?"

"From what I know already as his legal adviser I should be very much surprised if the total is less than sixty thousand pounds."

"Sixty thousand! Then Lumsdale's a rich man. How much used the old miser keep in his safe up at the house?"

"I haven't any idea what Mr. Burdett did about that."

"Um. When will this will be made public, Mr. Hanley?"

"When I as executor apply for probate."

"Well, don't start applying yet," Hylton said crisply. "We want to keep all this under our hats for a bit."

"I hope I appreciate the value of discretion as much as anybody," Quinton Hanley said. "I feel that I have done my duty by coming here, and however unpleasant a task may be that feeling is some sort of consolation. I wish you good evening, gentlemen."

He bowed, not without a sort of comic dignity and attended by Sergeant White made his way out to his car.

When the Sergeant came back into the office he found Kingsley Hylton pacing up and down animatedly, an unlit cigar between his lips.

"By gad, Sergeant, this makes you think a bit," he cried.

"You consider it very important, sir?"

The Inspector glanced at James White almost in annoyance. "Well, damn it all, man," he exploded, "it gives us what we haven't had a ghost of yet—real motive. Two motives for that matter, and two of the strongest—greed and anger. We must look a little more closely into Andrew Lumsdale's story. And what do you suppose Mr. Dale Shipley was doing that evening?"

"He was dining with Captain Reeves."

"Yes . . . with Reeves, eh? . . . and I also happen to 'know' that Andrew Lumsdale spent the entire time from say three till half past seven in Morechester, but, Sergeant, I don't quite trust that knowledge now. Do you play chess?"

"Yes, sir, I do."

"Good. Perry said you did. Let's have a game now; it's wonderfully good for clearing one's brain."

A little surprised, but nothing loath, White answered "All right, sir."

In the living room White produced the board and men from a drawer and set them out on the table; then each man settled down and there was something about the other's attitude that warned Kingsley Hylton he might be in for a surprise.

Very little conversation was heard for the next eighty minutes. Then James White leaned back and said, "I think you'll find that's mate, Inspector."

Secretly, Hylton was just a shade chagrined; he rather prided himself on his chess and it was some time since he had been bested in a game.

"Oh, just a bit of luck," James White said modestly, but it was humanly impossible to keep a hint of pleasure out of his voice.

"Luck for the Law, eh?" Hylton ruminated. "Well, I dare say we shall need it all before we're finished with this case."

Hylton checks up Andrew Lumsdale, tomorrow.

MOST ACTORS IN VAUDEVILLE

Vaudeville Is Test of Personalities Says Sammy White, Comedian.

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—George E. Stone, once of vaudeville, and Sammy White, ditto, sat down together the other day and named the current movie celebrities who like themselves were backgrounded in the three-a-day.

"They recited off the names of Fred Astaire, Mae West, Joe E. Brown, the late Will Rogers, Charlie Ruggles, Frank Fay, Eddie Cantor, Lila Lee, Hugh Herbert, Harry Richman—and then decided they might as well stop because, after all, the list could go on practically indefinitely."

"And none of them," remarked Sammy, the dancing comedian of the new "Show Boat," his first film, "has changed a bit. I think," he added, "that's why they're all so good in pictures. Actors learn things in vaudeville, and vaudeville tests their personalities. If the people like them in the three-a-day, those personalities are good for pictures, too. Why should they try to be different?"

A Show Boat Veteran

Sammy, a comic with operatic ambitions, has been on the stage virtually all his 39 years. He was in the original Ziegfeld production of "Show Boat," which is why he got a call for the movie.

Like every vaudevillean, Sammy has reminiscences of the "days when," and here are a few about current personalities. He remembers when:

Harry Richman played the piano for Mae West—and didn't sing. Himself.

George E. Stone did a dancing act. (In pictures Stone never has danced.)

Nancy Carroll was a chorus girl in the Winter Garden show.

Lee, Vermont, where Mr. Stary's brother, Dr. Ralph Stary conducts summer camps for boys and girls. Beverly Stary will remain at the camp for the entire season.

Phil Baker was Ben Bernie's stooge.

Hugh Herbert, of Scotch descent, had difficulty convincing agents he could play a Jewish comic.

Marie Dressler in Revue

The late Marie Dressler had a spot in a revue, despite the managers feeling that she was passe and her style of comedy would fail.

Lila Lee, Eddie Cantor and George Jessel were touring in Gus Edwards' "School Days." (When

11th Carnival and Homecoming Of Fairfield's Fire Company to Open Thursday; Many Prizes

More Than Score of Committees at Work on Plans for Three-Day Celebration; As in Past Holiday Spirit Will Prevail; Fine Program Is Arranged.

Members of the Fairfield fire company announce to the public their eleventh carnival and homecoming. The first event occurred in 1925 and has been held each year since during the first week in July. It has been attended and enjoyed by increasing numbers each year. With a full appreciation of this patronage the company has diligently planned and developed a program of entertainment and fun for the 1936 celebration that should prove the equal of any given previously. More than a score of committees have been at work for the past month upon the particular duties assigned by the general chairman. The fire company is indebted to all residents of the community and friends in other sections for donations and hearty co-operation that have made possible the success of past carnivals and for their response to soliciting committees for the coming celebration. The 1936 event will be a three-day celebration, opening Thursday evening, July 2, and closing Saturday night, July 4th. During the three days the same holiday spirit that formerly has pervaded the town is expected to be in evidence again. Carnival goes may expect the same hospitality and courtesy as shown them by the fire company and residents in other years. Over 7,000 square feet of tent canvas has been rented to cover the different activities. The auditorium tent, with a seating capacity for several hundred people and dancing floor space, is the largest. This tent provides a comfortable resting place and a place of shade at all times. The cook tent is next largest, followed closely by the refreshments tent. The double cook and dining tent will occupy the usual place and with the refreshments tent and seven or eight smaller ones will be arranged in double rows flanking the big top and forming a large central court or fairway. The grounds will be electrically illuminated and an electrically operated water system will supply water to the cook tent and wherever needed. A chicken dinner will be served at noon on July 4.

This good dinner, the charge for which is only 50 cents has been part of every carnival program. It has been patronized by people from far and near. Those in charge of the dining tent are planning another good meal. Ice cream, candies, sandwiches, cold drinks, bananas, melons, cigarettes and cigars will be on sale at all times. There will be music, dancing, bingo and games of skill each night. For the young, and those not so young, but who still feel light of foot there is the large dancing pavilion and an orchestra to furnish snappy tunes for the pastime. For those who play bingo there will be lots of useful prizes for the winners. For those who are keen of eye and steady of hand and arm in games of skill there will also be prizes. The opening event will be the "Young People's Parade," which will take place Thursday evening, July 2. It will form at the engine house on Centennial street and will be led by the Fairfield band and will move at 6 p. m. All who enter the parade will be given a prize, with more substantial awards for particular features. On Friday, July 3, a boys' baseball game will be played on the athletic field at 5 p. m. with Joe Harbaugh's team crossing bats with a Littlestown team. This should prove an attraction for all baseball fans as these boys' teams have been giving a fine exhibition of the game. At 6:30 p. m. a pageant entitled "America in the Making" will be presented on carnival grounds. Fifty boys and girls will take part in this event, which promises to be very colorful and entertaining. On Saturday, July 4, two Adams county baseball league games will be played on the athletic field, the first game starting at 10 a. m. The contenders will be the Bonneauville and Fairfield teams. At 1:30 p. m. the firemen's parade which is one of the best features of the celebration, will form at the west end of town and move to the east end and back to carnival grounds, where prizes will be presented. With the Fairfield band in the van, about ten companies are expected to participate. A handsome gavel will be presented the company making the best appearance and also to the company with the greatest number of members in line. Five gallons of gasoline will be given the person having the best decorated automobile and $250 in cash to the persons or persons having the most original get-up in line. This is not only a firemen's parade, but is open to all who wish to enter with automobiles, vehicles, horse back riders or any mode of travel that may be chosen. At 2:30 p. m. the Fairfield and Bonneauville teams will play the last game of the first half of the Adams county league baseball season. Considering the closeness of the race at the present time these two games on July 4 might easily decide the winner. The usual evening program of dancing, bingo, music and games will mark the closing night. The Fairfield band will give a concert each evening and will appear in the "Young People's Parade" and the Firemen's parade. A free evening prize will be given away both Thursday and Friday nights. Over 30 prizes will be awarded during the carnival, not including the prizes given to participants in the young people's parade. A total of 4,000 free numbered tickets will be distributed to carnival attendants, each ticket having a corresponding number which will be retained by the fire company. The corresponding numbers will be placed in a large container and thoroughly stirred. A number will then be drawn by a disinterested party and the person holding the ticket bearing that number will be the winner of a free prize. The evening prize on Thursday and Friday nights will be awarded in this manner and also the grand carnival prize, a studio couch which will be given away at the close of the carnival on Saturday night, July 4. In each case, in order to win one of these prizes, the holder must be present at the drawing with lucky ticket. At the grand drawing on Saturday night and immediately before the grand prize is presented to the holder of the winning number, 24 prizes, donations from merchants and friends will be awarded those whose names (the first 24) are drawn from the whole number stubs in the receptacle. For each chance purchased in these prizes the name of the purchaser is written on stub and retained by the fire company and at the drawing the names are all placed in receptacle and thoroughly mixed and then drawn, the first 24 names that come up will be the winners of the 24 prizes in the order listed on tickets purchased. The winners need not be present at the drawing to win in this contest. The Fairfield borough council has banned the use of firecrackers, fireworks and other explosives within the borough and on the carnival grounds during the entire homecoming celebration. MOTORCYCLE RACES The annual national championship motorcycle races will be held in Frederick, Maryland, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Joe Petrali, of Los Angeles, California, champion of 1936, will defend his title. Hollywood (AP).—Phil Regan, the tenor actor, worked as a "bumboatman" in Brooklyn navy yard when in his teens. That is, he paddled a boat around from which he sold fruit, candy and cigarettes to sailors.

Fairfield High School Band, Organized in 1932, Has 60 Members; Other Activities

With Prof. J. Floyd Slaybaugh, the county superintendent of schools presenting diplomas to sixteen graduates on the night of May 28, the 26th annual commencement of Fairfield high school was held on the athletic field.

It was the largest class to graduate from the school and the exercises were attended and enjoyed by the largest audience ever present as such an event. The presence of so many people was fitting testimony to the growth and development of the school. Beginning with a very small enrollment, the Fairfield schools have gradually grown until the peak of enrollment was reached this year when 160 pupils attended. Of this number 64 were enrolled in the grades, and while 96 were high school pupils, approximately 75 per cent of that number were rural students from Hamilton, Liberty, Highland and Franklin townships.

During this development many improvements have been made. One of the most important changes was brought about in 1932 when, through the efforts of a former principal, Prof. L. J. Fitzpatrick, the curriculum was changed from a three-year course to a four-year course. This made it possible for students to complete their high school work in Fairfield instead of having to transfer to another high school for fourth year work.

Many changes have been instituted since that time, designed to give the students every possible opportunity to enjoy advantages offered by other high schools. In 1932 a band was organized and a committee of parents and friends of the school appointed. Paul A. Harner, Hanover, was chosen director and practice held each week. From a charter membership of 25 this organization has grown to a present membership of 60 and is becoming well known for its rapid advancement.

Through the efforts of the members of the band auxiliary and townspeople 60 uniforms were purchased during the last winter. A blue cape of whipcord satin, on right hand corner of cape are the letters

F. H. S., blue, military style caps with red cords and pom poms, white shirts with blue ties and white trousers compose the uniform.

The band has been filling many engagements this summer. In the fall of 1934, due to the increasing interest in the band Mr. Harner was added to the teaching staff of the schools as a part time teacher of instrumental music. Thus every pupil of Fairfield and vicinity is provided the opportunity of free musical instruction.

In 1934, Professor Fitzpatrick was elected principal of the Elizabethville, Pa., schools and was succeeded by Prof. E. H. Slaybaugh, formerly a teacher at Stoyestown, Pa. During the term of 1934-1935, basketball was introduced for the first time and proved to be a very popular sport, both boys and girls participating. Soft ball also was started for girls, giving the school a well balanced sports program.

Formerly baseball and soccer were the only sports. Basketball is played in the old Methodist church which was purchased by the board of school directors for a practice hall for the band and since has been used as gymnasium also. "Hi-Lites," the Fairfield high school newspaper was enlarged from a four-to a six-page sheet. Fairfield is the only one of the smaller high schools in the county having a printed paper.

As a climax to the '34-'35 school year, the entire student body spent a day at Hershey and Hershey park for recreational and educational purposes. At the opening of the school year of 35-36 several changes occurred in the faculty. Miss Helen Schule, teacher of the primary grades for several years, resigned to accept a position in the schools at Ambler, Pa. Mrs. Dorothy Remmel Barley resigned her position of part time vocal teacher. The board filled the vacancies with the election of Miss Mary Louise Scott as primary teacher and Miss Letha Stoner a full time teacher of music, history and English.

To provide room for an increasing enrollment of students the I. O. O. F. hall was rented by the school board and converted into a school room, where the primary grades were taught.

Many activities begun in previous years were continued on a larger scale. A glee club, under the leadership of Miss Letha Stoner, was organized; band uniforms purchased; athletic teams were completely outfitted; play day for prospective students was held, and the first year book in the history of the school was published.

In keeping with the policy of the last few years, a vitalized commencement was held in 1936, in which a pageant entitled "Our School and Yours" was presented. The faculty for the coming school term, which opens September 8, follows:

E. H. Slaybaugh, principal and coach; R. B. Hoover, Miss Helen McClell, Miss Letha Stoner, Paul A. Harner, J. W. Martin and Miss Mary Louise Scott.

With the prospect of a large freshman class it is expected that the high school enrollment will exceed 100.

ZIONCHECK SENT HOME BY POLICE

Kenneth Romney, house sergeant-at-arms, arranged for his departure after posting $25 at police headquarters to gain Zioncheck's freedom in connection with an assault charge. Romney indicated that Mrs. Zioncheck, the congressman's bride of a few weeks, would not accompany her husband west.

A short time after his difficulties with metropolitan police had been settled, at least temporarily, by the posting of the bond, Zioncheck issued a statement in which he charged he had been "shanghaied" into the Gallinger hospital here and into the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt hospital for mental patients at Towson, Maryland, to which he had been transferred from Gallinger.

It was from the Towson institution that Zioncheck escaped by this was said to be volunteer enlistments of Germans, who are citizens of the Free City, in Hitler's army and labor service.

This is what worries the Poles. They fear that Danzig will become closer to the reich through the training received by Danzigers in Germany.

An Evening Thought

Each one of us is bound to make the little circle in which he lives better and happier. Bound to see that out of that small circle the widest good may flow. Each may have fixed in his mind the thought that out of a single household may flow influences that shall stimulate the whole commonwealth and the whole civilized world.—A. P. Stanley.

Out of the Past

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Items: Mr. J. W. C. Austin, of York, has placed a G. A. R. register at the National cemetery.

On Saturday the stable of John Hankey, Mountjoy township, was burnt. It is supposed to have taken fire from sparks from a passing traction engine.

Cardinal Gibbons last week attended the commencement at Mount St. Mary's College, at Emmitsburg. The exercises were of an interesting character.

Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal goes to the National conference of Charities and Corrections, at St. Paul, Minnesota, July 1, as a delegate from the Pennsylvania Board of Charities.

For Europe: Judge Wills and daughters Annie and Jennie, will sail for Europe on Saturday in the City of Berlin, of the Inman line. They will visit England, Scotland, Ireland and France, and will be gone about six weeks.

Commencement Note: The closing exercises of the College and Seminary drew to Gettysburg an unusually large crowd of visitors. We take brief notes of what transpired.

At 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, the Class-day exercises comes off on the college campus. E. C. Shafer delivered the address of welcome. O. G. Klinger talked to the under graduates.

Tuesday night Rev. J. G. Goettman, of Allegheny city, delivered a cultured address before the Seminary alumni. Rev. Dr. Billheimer, as President of the Seminary Board, addressed the graduating class. Of the same character was the parting address of Prof. M. Valentine, D.D., L.L.D., chairman of the Seminary Faculty, who delivered the diplomas. The following young men were graduated: Charles W. Baker, George W. Baughman, F. H. Crissman, Samuel J. Derr, William H. Jordy, Charles B. King, Luther M. Kuhns, P. Livingston, C. S. McDaniel, George E. Schur, Aug. R. Steck, Herman C. Voigt and H. L. Yorgor.

Wednesday morning a very large audience greeted the Junior class exercises. A few numbers of the program: Intellectual Politics of the Skeptic, H. C. Alleman, Shippensburg; "The American Youth," C. E. Stahle, Gettysburg; "Giordano Bruno," J. S. Croli, Gettysburg; "Constancy of Purpose," I. F. Bream, Heidelsburg; "Intercourse the Soul of Progress," A. G. Wolf, Abbotstown; "Orpheus Descent into Hades," J. S. McDermid, Bendersville; "Forget the Past," I. L. Crouse, Littlestown; "With Brains," H. G. Snyder, Arentsville; "Song of the Brook" (poem), M. Coover, of Johnstown. The students received many flowers and gifts.

On Wednesday night Prof. J. W. Richard, D.D., of Springfield, Ohio, addressed the college alumni. The annual meeting of the alumni association followed, Hon. Edw. McPherson presiding. H. C. Picking was elected treasurer in place of Mr. Fahnestock, resigned. Dr. G. R. Stahley, Prof. Bickle, J. M. Krauth, S. McSwope and G. J. Benner were reappointed the committee to arrange for the next alumni re-union and dinner.

Thursday morning the large audience room of the church was crowded to overflowing on the occasion of the regular commencement exercises. (We find in the program) "Air and Life," Robert Horner, Gettysburg; "State Control of Private Business," H. F. Buehler, Gettysburg; Vaudeville, by O. G. Klinger, of Gettysburg.

(We find in the list of honors and prizes) fourth honor to O. G. Klinger and L. E. Deyoe, Junior Latin prize to H. C. Alleman, of Shippensburg, with honorable mention of Allen Schmell, of Mount Bethel, and M. Coover, of Johnstown, for best general scholarship in freshman class to Sanford B. Martin, of Gettysburg, with honorable mention of Morris Croli, of same place.

Rev. T. C. Billheimer, of Reading, and Rev. Prof. J. W. Richard, of Springfield, Ohio, are among the number who received the honorary degree of D.D.

The Alumni Re-Union was held at Round Top Park Thursday afternoon. After partaking of an excellent dinner served up by Mr. E. H. Minnigh, the President, Hon. Edw. McPherson, announced the toasts.

Personal: Lieut. Col. Wilson, late of the British Army, visited the battle field last week and like everybody else was delighted.

Gen. Adam Bodeau, of Gen. Grant's staff and military biographer of the general, will be among the distinguished visitors tomorrow. On Friday last the President's car of the Richmond and Danville R. R. arrived, containing a distinguished party of tourists, consisting of F. W. Huidekoper, president of the company; Mrs. Huidekoper and two children, Rear Admiral James E. Jouett, U. S. N.; Commodore W. S. Schley, U. S. N., of the Greeley Relief Expedition, and Mrs. Schley, J. Miles Browne, Medical Director of the Navy, and Mrs. Browne, Richard Washington, Pay Director of the Navy, and Mrs. Washington. Sergeant Holtzworth piloted them over the battle field.

Elected Principal: The Board of Directors of the Shippensburg Normal School on Wednesday unanimously elected Prof. John F. McCreary principal of that institution. He is a Gettysburg boy, graduated from Pennsylvania college with the class of 1890 and has had large experience in educational work. We congratulate him on his promotion and the school on securing his services.

Court Proceedings: Tavern license of George W. Erb, McKnightstown, transferred to Sarah Erb.

Peddler's license granted to Nathan Balser.

Restaurant license of S. Kene and A. Tee, Gettysburg, transferred to Lewis Ramer.

On Sunday afternoon an alarm of fire called out the fire department, but its services were not needed. Some clothing in the attic of the residence of Alex. D. Buehler in some unknown way took fire and the fact was discovered by the smoke issuing from the roof. It was promptly extinguished with no damage but some burnt clothing.

We have made arrangements with Mr. W. H. Bryson to report the Biglerville markets every week.

JOE S. JACKSON

Joe wrote of baseball in the years gone by
And all the sports which men and boys enjoyed.

His was the nimble brain, the watchful eye,
Mine was the poor assistance he employed.

I used the scissors and the pasting pot;
Tallied the records; told upon the phone

Who won the sweepstakes down at Aldershot
And dreamed of doing writing of my own.

Joe knew the players on and off the field,
Made them and broke them, was the breaking just.

He saw what from the public is concealed
How soon the greatest trophies gather dust.

Off at our midnight suppers Joe would say:
"A ball is thrown for someone else to bat.

And hit or missed the crowds will shout 'Hooray!'
But surely life holds something more than that."

Word comes that Joe is dead. The game goes on!
Before the march of time all champions fall.

Now those he lavished praise and help upon
Only the dusty record books recall.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

Sylvia Sidney and Spencer Tracy are the co-stars of "Fury," the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer picture showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Majestic theatre.

And in this powerful screen play, directed by Fritz Lang, they give performances that will linger long in your memory!

The narrative, based on an original story by Norman Krasna, has to do with the tragic circumstances that separate two young lovers on the eve of their marriage. Tracy, as the man, is arrested as a kidnaper and apparently burned to death by a furious mob that storms and fires the prison in which he is

HENRY FORD

SOME day some one will write the true story of Henry Ford. Not of the inventor and engineer, or the man of genius in business—but of the man himself—and when it is written, it will inspire millions.

Men are great because of the way they think—not because of any mass of accumulated money, knowledge, book learning, or so-called rare culture—but because of what they are in themselves.

I first met Henry Ford through his interest in these brief talks, several years ago. And every time that it is my privilege to see him again, as it was recently, I am newly inspired. The gigantic achievements of this man in business are known throughout the world, but only the intimate ones, who have been accorded his rare personality and friendship, can testify to the true greatness of Henry Ford. I, for one, believe him to be one of the greatest men of the age, and posterity will thus agree.

Success, according to Henry Ford, must rest upon the foundation of usefulness. "Produce something useful for people," he once told me, "and you won't have to worry about their not buying it." Thirty million automobiles, produced by Henry Ford, in scarcely more than 30 years, testify to the truth of his statement.

No one but a rare business genius could ever have achieved such a success. But where did the genius come from? The answer is plain when you have met and talked with the man himself. Henry Ford thinks in simple terms. Natural terms. Commonsense terms. So direct are his statements, and so easy to understand that you at once wonder why there are not a hundred or so Henry Fords in every community. The trouble is that most of us muddle in our minds. We don't think clearly and simply at all. Another thing, Henry Ford has always worked.

Henry Ford thinks directly. In a single sentence, he floods a difficult subject with light. He lives simply, and loves simple things. He is never in a hurry. His famous hobby is the restoring of noble landmarks and the crude creations of the past, as object lessons to the youth of the future. His big interest is in children. In them, he believes, lies the security of the future, and so in the Edison Institute, which he has founded, he teaches them reverence for the past, and tells them that usefulness alone brings success and happiness.

The real wealth of Henry Ford lies in his understanding, his unique vision, and his faith in the character of human beings—that right character will take care of the future all right.

Man About
Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

A vast army of New Yorkers have cause to give thanks to Durries Crane. . . He's compiling a dictionary of culinary terms, which will eliminate a lot of confusion among patrons who are misled by menu names in the foreign languages. . . There is a story that Leopold Stokowski isn't really a Pole, but English. . . They say his real name is Stokes and that his professional name and accent are acquired. . . It is well known that as a youth he served as a choir boy in London at St. Martin-in-the-Fields and that he is a graduate of Queens' College, Oxford.

Broadway Stuff: Six months ago Penny Fields didn't have a quarter. . . Came a midtown cabaret engagement and now he's on the airways, booked solidly in presentation houses, and has a quarter of a million in sight. . . One of Tin Pan Alley's best remembered songwriters is blind. . . New York's newest idol is Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee baseball player—and how New York can go for a new idol, or drop an old one. . . Sally Washington, who dances in the prelude to "Bury the Dead," is a Stevenson, Alabama, girl.

Street Scene: A familiar gure in natty double-breasted pausing at a Fifth avenue traffic intersection. . . He reaches for a cigarette, lights it, tosses it away after a few swift puffs as if smoking isn't worth the trouble. . . Doug Fairbanks, Sr.

Overheard at Madison and 42nd street: The hour hand is striking midnight and three robust young women are jawing. . . "I told him," belowned one in a raucous voice, "I said, 'You rat, you tramp, you bum, get OUT!'" . . . In fog-horn tones one of the sisters observes: "That wasn't telling him—you should have TOLD him!" Claudia Morgan and Edith Van Cleve both appear in two different plays nightly. . . One of the main attractions in a midtown bar is a duplicate of a liquor license once owned by Abraham Lincoln. . . Current revivals of plays which opened in New York last fall are "Parnell" and "Ghosts." "Parnell" was an original, but "Ghosts" has had countless revivals.

Despite acknowledgment that the season is over, there are still 24 plays on Broadway.

Where is Faith Bacon, famed beauty of Ziegfeld's Follies? . . . She's as the Paradise, dancing in a new cabaret revue. . . John Mason Brown, the critic, takes time off each year to make a lecture tour.

The proprietor of a lunch wagon in the Village wasn't kidding when he encircled his eatery with tables and chairs. . . He thinks his clients, who are largely truck drivers, should have the privilege of dining at a sidewalk cafe too.

Seven is the lucky number of Rose Marie Brancato, the singer. . . She's the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter.

Buoy Telephones
Devised by Subs

Stockholm, Sweden (AP).—A submarine buoy telephone, by which a sunken craft can communicate with rescuers, has been adopted by the Swedish navy.

An ordinary telephone instrument is enclosed in a buoy that can be released to rise to the surface when a submarine is sunk by accident. The buoy, carrying telephone wires from the submarine, is equipped with a flashlight to attract attention on the water.

Another communications novelty is the "laryngophone," which receives sound impulses from the larynx of the speaker, and hence is not affected by nearby noises. It is designed for use in such places and engine rooms and airplanes where there is so much noise that the speaker's voice would be drowned in an ordinary telephone.

MAKEUP BOXES HIDE
IN VANITY BRACELETS

Paris (AP).— "Vanity" bracelets are a smart new Paris accessory. They are set with three large jade squares all of which open like old-fashioned lockets. The largest in the middle contains the powder, those on the sides the rouge and the eye shadow, while the long clasp on the back turns out to be a tube for the lipstick.

FILM WRITERS
BAND TOGETHER

Writers Guild Is Result of Filmland Squabbles; Some Oppose Movement.

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood.—There is nearly always a fight going on in the picture business. Hollywood, scene of so many one-punch physical encounters, is equally accustomed to warfare in its industrial ranks.

If it is not the labor crews or the sound men who are up in arms against the producers, it is the actors or the directors or the writers.

Right now it is the writers, although a truce has been effected by the scribes themselves which will postpone the issue for a while. Their fight, however, assumes more serious proportions as an outgrowth of the steady organization that has been proceeding among many branches of film production in the past three years.

Organized In 1933

The writers and the actors started organizing shortly after the so-called "voluntary" pay-outs of 1933, when producers asked for salary sacrifices to "sustain the industry" during the financial emergency of that spring.

A few months ago many of the trades and crafts represented in the making of pictures went on a "closed shop" basis and were so accepted by the producers. About the same time several directors got together and announced formation of a Screen Directors' Guild.

Guilds now represent most of the branches of production, including dancers and hair-stylists. The producers have one too, only it is called the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

This latter group recently anticipated writer demands by stating flatly it would not deal with writers on a "closed shop" basis. Writers Guild leaders, including its president, Ernest Pascal, have been working for a "guild shop."

Cite Many "Abuses"

The alleged "abuses" embattled writers want to deal with are many. They want to do something about those "optional" contracts under which a producer can keep a writer or fire him while the writer can't quit. They want to settle the "screen credit" question for writers. They want to stop the practice of wholesale authorship of screen plays. . . tossing a script from one writer to another until, often, 25 or 30 scribes have had a hand in it.

Not all Hollywood writers are in sympathy with the Guild movement. That was evidenced when John Howard Lawson, the Guild's first president, told a congressional com-

BALTIMORE
UNION SLIVER CARDS
The Monday supply of live stock was estimated at 102,000 cattle, including about 150 which were carried over from last week-end. Calf receipts were placed at 700, hogs 800 and sheep 3,100.
Cattle—The character of the cattle run was much lighter last Thursday. The supply of fed steers was small, several loads of highweight stocker and feeder cattle were pointed and the distribution and grade of cows was as usually found on late days. Trade got off to a fairly brisk start on the small offering of fed steers. There existed a healthy demand for limited numbers of fed steers, the other classes of cattle accounted some closeness in action. Most of the fed steers grading medium to good and weighing 900-1,200 pounds sold at $7.50-8.25, a load of good medium weight making higher than the close of last week, while other classes ruled steady to weak, some cows and bulls being sold at $4.00-5.00. The quota of stocker and feeder cattle were getting slow action due to shortage of grass and trade was generally weak on few of the early sales. Bill Provides For Counties to Administer Relief

Harrisburg, Pa., June 30 (AP)—George L. Woodward, Philadelphia, republican, proposed in the senate today that administration of relief be transferred from the Emergency Relief Board to the counties.

Woodward introduced a bill to authorize the change, after George L. Reed, Dauphin, republican, reopened the relief fight by blaming the new deal administration in Harrisburg and Washington for the state's "dilemma."

The senate, controlled by organization republicans, is deadlocked with the democratic administration over how much money the special session should appropriate for relief. Governor Earle originally demanded seventy million dollars, then revised his estimate to fifty-five million dollars; republicans protested forty million dollars should be sufficient.

Woodward suggested that county assistance boards, composed of five citizens be created, all members to serve without pay. Two members would be appointed by the governor, two by the common pleas court, and the fifth by the chairman of the county commissioners.

Woodward proposed that the county board transfer all employable married men under relief rolls to the Works Progress Administration in exchange for a similar number of unmarried men employed on the works program.

The Philadelphian said this "would result in a saving of more than one million dollars."

A democratic bill and a republican resolution providing for transfer of relief on the E. R. B. to counties are locked in a committee in the democratic house.

Lehman to Seek Re-Election as N. Y. Governor

Albany, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman, democrat, agreed today to seek a third term after receiving a personal request from President Roosevelt to carry forward his program of social legislation.

Climaxing a movement among party leaders in the state and nation to urge that Lehman rescind his refusal to become a candidate, Mr. Roosevelt wrote the governor:

"Such reconsideration would make me very happy—more than that, it would make millions of people all over the United States very happy."

Less than a day after the letter went out from the white house, the 58-year-old banker-Governor, announced at noon that he would run again.

"Regardless of personal considerations, however compelling," he said, "I feel that I can no longer resist the pleas of my party both in the state and in the nation."

His announcement brought an immediate expression of "great happiness" from Mr. Roosevelt.

Many observers expressed the belief the governor, who succeeded Mr. Roosevelt in the state executive chair in 1928, would be renominated without opposition.

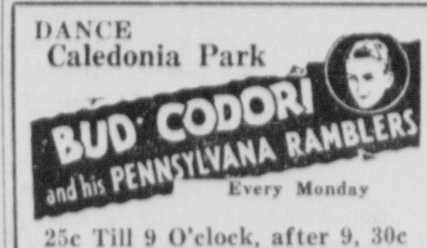

Rejects Hospital Head Appointee

Harrisburg, Pa., June 30 (AP)—John D. Pennington, secretary of welfare, rejected today a recommendation that Vincent Schneider, of Mt. Carmel, be appointed superintendent of the Shamokin state hospital.

Pennington said he could not appoint Schneider because of "lack of training and experience in hospital administration."

The hospital trustees recommended Schneider as successor to Dr. George Reese, who resigned, after Pennington dismissed his son as assistant surgeon.
